
FLIGHT SCHOOL!!!

The long awaited platform of an industry legend is here!

Flight School is an online hub for all things fashion, where we render various styling services such as makeovers, personal shopping, style consultations, photoshoots and creative direction. We offer the expertise of a professional NYC stylist and dedicated style influencer with over a decade of experience in the industry. We're gladly committed to serving as a source of inspiration, where honest expression gives way to authentic, rock-solid content.

Pictured above is the CEO of Flight School named DeR'rae, in his New York studio.

“After years of wardrobe styling, I realized that enough people still didn’t know about the work that I was doing, and the ones who were aware weren’t fully aware of the scope of my endeavors. I started doing art installations on Instagram during the pandemic, but I quickly realized that I needed more exposure. So I designed this website, to create a platform where I could display my interdisciplinary prowess of the arts; I can now blog, share my poetry, photography, and my interior decorating skills.

“This platform has also been brought into fruition due to high demand from my clientele. I would reach out to potential customers on any social media platform or website that I could, now I no longer have to, they can just come to my website and book a time slot for any of my services. I’m so pleased and proud to be at this point in my career and so thankful for all of the support that I’ve received.”

DeR'rae turned his living room into a studio where he could consistently create content. He named it "The Mudroom" because of the Mud-cloth textiles that he uses.

“I started doing art installations on Instagram during the pandemic, but I quickly realized that I needed more exposure. So I designed this website.”

-DERRAE